

We do our best to keep our online products available. However, it is possible that a purchased item has become unavailable even though it appears on this website. In the event that a purchased item becomes unavailable, we will provide a refund or provide you with a back order timeline. If a back order timeline is given, the customer can still get a refund if the timeline is unacceptable to them.

—Hug Jewelers